

Title:

Tiny Device Alerts You To Pump Up Your Tires

Word Count:

262

Summary:

A new federal auto safety requirement has engineers busy perfecting a tiny sensor that could h

Keywords:

Tiny Device Alerts You To Pump Up Your Tires

Article Body:

A new federal auto safety requirement has engineers busy perfecting a tiny sensor that could h

The regulation from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration requires all passenger

The rule gives manufacturers of micro-electro mechanical systems, also called MEMS, a lucrative

Vehicles equipped with MEMS-based tire-pressure systems have a sensor attached to the inside o

The pressure sensor is a high-tech device containing several components including a temperatur

The NHTSA estimates that the new mandate would cost auto manufacturers an average of about $48

Currently, engineers are working to design tire-pressure monitoring systems that are functiona

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>