

Title:

What Is Ethanol

Word Count:

572

Summary:

The use of ethanol as an alternative fuel is becoming increasingly popular by ever conscious o

What is Ethanol?

Ethanol is a grain alcohol, or plant mass formula derived from the natural sugars found in bio

Keywords:

ethanol, ethanol fuel

Article Body:

The use of ethanol as an alternative fuel is becoming increasingly popular by ever conscious o

What is Ethanol?

Ethanol is a grain alcohol, or plant mass formula derived from the natural sugars found in bio

Benefits of Ethanol

There are many benefits of using an alternative fuel such as Ethanol, for starters it is a ren

How is Ethanol Produced?

The process used consists of 8 stages, corn is the main product used in this method, Milling t

Please note that this procedure is risky and I do not recommend making biodiesel without furth

Distillation, the mash now contains about 10% alcohol and 90% non fermentable solids, the solid

Dehydration, is where the last of the water is removed to make the alcohol about 200 proof.

Denaturing, is used then to make the alcohol unfit for human consumption, this is done by addi

There are 2 co products derived from this process as well. The first is the non fermentable pr

There are many reasons to use Ethanol as either an additive or an alternative fuel; one of the

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>