Scheduling

Bearing in mind that the whole process can take quite a while, especially on long distances, scheduling is a key factor.

The cost

When working with a Car Mover, confirm what the total cost of the shipping will be. As you obtain quotes, make sure you get a detailed breakdown of the costs.

- Origination/destination;
- Approximate departure date;
- Type of vehicle(s);
- Type of car transport service desired (e.g. door-to-door car transport vs. terminal-to-terminal);
- Special car mover or auto shipping requests (e.g. deliver at a location other than your home).

Payment method

While some car transport and auto drive-away companies may not require payment in advance, others do. Be clear on the payment terms before signing any contracts.

Licenses

The Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration must license auto shippers, transporters with interstate commerce.

Insurance

The car Transport Company or auto drive-away should insure your vehicle against damage and theft during transport.

Inspect your car before shipping

It is advisable that in addition to receiving a condition report document from your car mover, you inspect your car yourself before shipping.

Accepting your vehicle for delivery

At the time of delivery, inspect your vehicle SLOWLY AND CAREFULLY and compare the condition against the condition report document.

Unresolved Disputes

Always try to work out your dispute with the car mover or auto shipping company first. They often have a dispute resolution process.

As I hope everything will turn out all right with your delivery, I'm giving a few links to some helpful resources.
